

CMP 8

Take your seats for

Raked seating cathedral for

THE 12,000 people expected to turn up to see the city's quinquennial Chester Mystery Plays, which open next week, won't have to worry about missing a single thing. Raked seating has been installed in the historic Chester Cathedral.

Chairman of the mystery play company Jo Sykes explained the decision: "When we decided it was going to be essential to request permission of the dean and chapter to perform inside the cathedral rather than outside the Cathedral Green because of the vagaries of the British summer weather, we soon realised that it was also going to be necessary to do something about the seating.

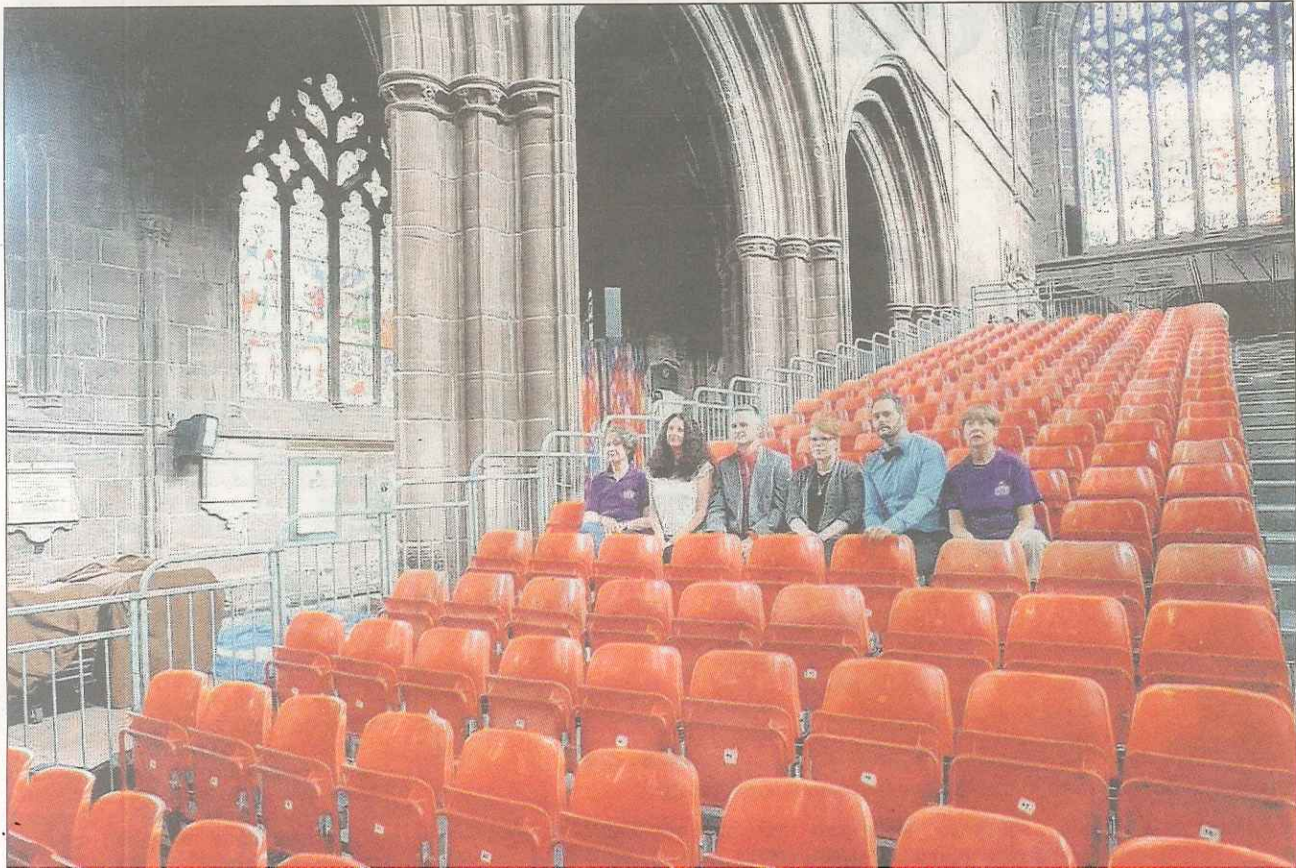

"You cannot expect people to pay up to £25 to sit in an auditorium where you may just be up behind a pillar or watching an action on a TV screen.

"We therefore included in our request to perform, a request to bring raked seating into the nave.

CMP 8

Take your seats for

Raked seats in cathedral for

THE 12,000 people expected to turn up to see the city's quennial Chester Mystery Plays, which open next week, won't have to worry about missing a single thing. Raked seating has been installed in the historic Chester Cathedral.

Chairman of the mystery company Jo Sykes explained the decision: "When we decided it was going to be essential to request permission of the dean and chapter to perform inside the cathedral rather than outside the Cathedral Green because of the vagaries of the British summer weather, we soon realised that it was also going to be necessary to do something about the seating.

"You cannot expect people to pay up to £25 to sit in an auditorium where you may just be up behind a pillar or watching action on a TV screen.

"We therefore included in our request to perform, a request to bring raked seating into the nave.